This webinar, presented by APIL international group co-ordinator Chris Deacon of Stewarts, and Daniel Clarke, barrister at Outer Temple Chambers, will cover

- Very latest from the CJEU on the decision in X v Kuoni
 - When is a tour operator liable under the package travel regulations?
 - What is meant by the local supplier?
 - When can a tour operator use the defences available under the package travel regulations to avoid liability?
- Jurisdiction and the tort gateway
 - The latest on developments in jurisdiction following Brexit
 - Damage and the tort gateway following Brownlie in the UK Supreme Court

Chris Deacon - Partner, International Injury, Stewarts, London

Chris Deacon is a specialist international injury lawyer who throughout his career has acted almost exclusively for the victims of accidents abroad and in disputes with tour operators, hotels, travel providers and insurers. He is ranked as a leading travel lawyer in both Chambers and The Legal 500. Chris represents clients following serious international accidents, usually UK residents injured overseas but also foreign nationals who sustain life-changing injuries in the UK.

Chris is an APIL accredited accidents abroad specialist and assessor. He is a member of the Travel and Tourism Lawyers Association, APIL and PEOPIL, and secretary to the APIL International Special Interest Group.

Daniel Clark - Barrister, Outer Temple Chambers, London
Year of Call: 2005

Dan Clarke specialises in cases cross-border claims (including claims raising conflicts of law and jurisdictional issues) and has experience of acting in claims in other jurisdictions including in the Privy Council and in Jersey. He is experienced in costs issues and is an accredited mediator.

He is extremely knowledgeable, very patient and has very good attention to detail. He is very approachable but entirely professional in his work." Travel, Chambers and Partners 2020
