

Winning a stroke case: Top tips

Wednesday, 6 July 2022
13:00 - 14:00

This webinar, presented by Matthew Stockwell, will provide his top tips when dealing with stroke claims.

Matthew draws on extensive experience and a thematic review of reported decisions, to provide key learning points and give you the knowledge and confidence to investigate, assess the merits and successfully present stroke claims.

The session will cover the main evidential and medicolegal issues, including:

- Stroke types, causes and symptoms
- The importance of patient history and common forensic issues
- Stroke risk prevention including hypertension and atrial fibrillation
- Common errors in primary care
- Common errors in emergency medicine and surgery
- Interventions and causation issues including thrombolysis and thrombectomy
- Common defences and how to overcome them

Matthew acts exclusively on behalf of injured people and their families in connection with life changing injuries, placing the needs of these clients at the heart of everything he does. He is consistently credited for his empathetic manner.

Matthew brings a proactive and focused approach to his cases, providing expert advice and reassurance with all aspects of the process from initial assessment and case planning through to settlement or trial. He draws on vast experience of successfully litigating difficult, unusual, and robustly defended claims.

He is praised for his technical knowledge, written and oral advocacy skills and attention to detail. He achieves excellent results for clients through hard work, responsiveness, and meticulous preparation.

His personal injury practice covers the following areas:

- Brain injuries
- Spinal cord injuries
- Limb loss and amputation
- Severe psychiatric injury including PTSD
- Chronic pain disorders including CRPS and fibromyalgia
- Severe burns, electrocutions and crushing injuries
- Other catastrophic injuries

Matthew has extensive experience of drafting complex schedules of loss in high-value claims. His skills in the effective preparation and presentation of complex quantum issues are widely recognised. He adds value in every case in which he is instructed.
