

Daily Mail

Re: How whiplash 'epidemic' pushes car cover up £82

27 October 2016

The link between whiplash injuries and rising car insurance premiums has already been discredited.

Since reform to the personal injury system three years ago, insurers have saved a billion pounds yet premiums continue rise. Insurers renege on their promise to pass on savings to consumers.

The attention really needs to be on the insurance industry's own dysfunctional practices, which continue to hit motorists in the pocket year after year.

Neil Sugarman

President

Association of Personal Injury Lawyers (APIL)