

LOCAL LAWYER TAKES ON LEADING ROLE

Belfast lawyer Robert Martin has been voted onto the national executive committee of the Association of Personal Injury Lawyers (APIL).

Robert, who is based at Belfast firm McAteer and Company, is the association's Northern Ireland representative and has already played a vital role in the development of APIL in this jurisdiction. He has contributed to consultation responses on the civil justice review programme, the criminal injuries review, legal aid review and county court costs review.

"I am delighted to have been voted onto the committee and hope to make a valuable contribution to APIL both nationally and here in Northern Ireland," said Robert. "I am looking forward to developing my role even further to try to make a difference to people who have been injured through no fault of their own."
