

Legal training for case managers 2020

Neil Sugarman

VIRTUAL COURSE 4 December 2020

Warren Collins

The Association of Personal Injury Lawyers (APIL) has been fighting for the rights of injured people for almost 30 years. A not-for-profit campaign organisation, APIL's 3,300 member lawyers (mainly solicitors, barristers and legal executives) are dedicated to improving the services provided for victims of personal injury, protecting and enhancing access to justice, and lobbying for changes to the law where necessary.

APIL's training division is governed by a training and accreditation committee. The committee is responsible for all activities relating to APIL's lawyer accreditation scheme and training activities. APIL runs well over 200 events each year for personal injury lawyers. APIL members regularly work with case managers on their cases and a need has been identified for some legal training.

This brand new VIRTUAL course is a must for both experienced case managers and those with less experience, needing to find out more about key aspects of the legal process and what is important to personal injury solicitors and their clients. Presented by practitioners who have worked for many years with very seriously injured claimants, the course will provide valuable insights into key areas of case management and answer many of the most difficult and frequently asked questions.

- The Rehabilitation Code, The Serious Injury Guide and Immediate Needs Assessment Reports
- Effects on litigation of a joint instruction vs single instruction
- Privileged information and disclosure
- Status of a case manager
- Law Reform (Personal Injuries Act) 1948
- Anatomy of a claim
- Working with experts
- Settlements, JSMs and approvals
- Giving evidence
- Heads of loss – and lump sums/periodical payments
- Post settlement involvement and COP Deputyships

Upon completion of the course, you will receive a certificate to say that you are "APIL trained"

Warren Collins is past co-ordinator to the APIL spinal cord injury Special Interest Group (a post held for more than a decade) He is an APIL Fellow and member of (and assessor for) the APIL Spinal Cord Injury and APIL Brain Injury expert panels.
