

Maximising rehabilitation gains in traumatic brain injury cases

Friday, 27 November
10:00 - 11:00

This webinar explores the vital importance of early intervention and bespoke and meaningful rehabilitation in catastrophic brain injury cases.

Sarah Griggs, Partner at Irwin Mitchell and Catastrophic Brain Injury Specialist and Dr Mark Holloway, Senior Brain Injury Case Manager at HeadFirst and Expert Witness will look at the importance of choosing the right Case Manager for each individual client, the role of the Multi-Disciplinary Team and the interplay between the litigation and the neurorehabilitation.

We will cover:

- What a good litigator can expect from a good brain injury case manager
- What might a good brain injury case manager expect from a good litigator
- MDTs and getting the most from their input in the legal claim
- Role of experts to support neurorehabilitation
- Case study

Sarah Griggs joined Irwin Mitchell in 2006 and is a Partner in the Serious Injury team with a specialism in Catastrophic brain injury cases.

Sarah is accredited as a brain injury specialist by the APIL injury Accreditation and has close links with Headway and was appointed as a Trustee of Headway East London in 2013.

Sarah is also a Committee member for the Acquired Brain Injury Forum for London (ABIL) and she is keen to raise awareness of acquired brain injury across London and the UK. Sarah is passionate about rehabilitation and has extensive experience of securing early interim payments for her clients to ensure that their rehabilitation can start as soon as possible.

Mark Holloway is a brain injury case manager and expert witness, with thirty years' experience of working with people with an acquired brain injury (ABI).

He is involved with the development of complex packages of rehabilitation and support for individuals who have executive impairments and reduced levels of insight. Mark's research interests include parenting post ABI, managing complex packages of support in the community, family experience of ABI and mental capacity issues pertaining to ABI.

He is the author of academic articles relating to brain injury and the family experience of brain injury, and rehabilitation. He has authored a book and book chapters on the subject.

Mark has given evidence in the High Court and the Court of Protection, in criminal and Coroner's Courts as well as to the Houses of Lords and Commons.
