Michael Pace is a past president of the Lincolnshire Law Society.

Michael is based in the Lincoln office of Chattertons LLP and is an experienced and highly regarded advocate having dealt with cases which have raised national media interest and a recognition of the correct law on Driving Licence offences.

With a unique expertise and perspective in motor accidents and Road Traffic Law gained through previous experience within the police force and driving schools, Michael joined the legal profession in 1987. He specialises in motoring offences and accident claims.

Accredited as a fellow of the Association of Personal Injury Lawyers - APIL. Michael lectures on topics such as liability in road traffic accidents and road traffic law.

Michael's specialities include advising and representing drivers alleged to have committed road traffic offences, liability in motor accident cases, and high value personal injury claims. He represents and advises fleet operators with the Driver and Vehicle Standards Agency - DVSA and Traffic Commissioner issues. He attends Courts anywhere in England or Wales to represent motoring clients.

"Highly informative. An absolute must for all personal injury practitioners"
