Tuesday, 17 November (Start time: 09:30)

Ogden Tables and schedules: How to do the calculations yourself using Ogden 8

This session is designed to introduce junior litigators to future loss claims and, particularly, how to calculate future loss of earnings and future costs of care. You will leave the session with a good grounding and confidence to draft your own schedules.

The session will cover:-

- An explanation of the Ogden Tables?
- Definition of the Discount Rate?
- What is new in Ogden 8
- Short history of the change in the Discount Rate
- Case study and explanation of how to calculate a future loss of earnings claim, using Ogden 8
- Case study and explanation of how to calculate a future care claim, using Ogden 8

Speaker: Malcolm Underhill,
IBB Solicitors, Uxbridge

Tuesday, 17 November (Start time: 11:20)

Carrying out mental capacity assessments from a clinical neuropsychology perspective: Principles and practice in the current context

A training workshop intended to cover the issues of capacity including the frontal lobe paradox and the impact this can have on straight forward capacity assessments with patients with acquired brain injury. Along with providing advice to personal injury lawyers as to the steps which can be taken to assist experts in understanding the full picture when it comes to their assessment, the workshop will consider robust adaptations to assessment methodology in the post C-19 context.

Speaker: Dr Najma-Khan Bourne,
Consultant Clinical Neuropsychologist
Neuro London Ltd and Kings College
Hospital, London

Tuesday, 17 November (Start time:10:15)

JUNIOR LITIGATORS STREAM

Tuesday, 17 November 2020

Tuesday, 17 November (Start time: 13:45)

Well-being: Look after yourself for a change (and through change too in a time of coronavirus)

How to make working in a solicitors' office less stressful in the 21st century... and more fun!

Solicitors' offices are stressful places. Nearly 70% of solicitors are said to suffer high levels of stress. This seminar will look at the causes of stress in the office and at ways it can be reduced.

Richard Barr has been writing about life in the office for legal journals for many decades and has himself been through (and survived) numerous stressful situations. He will be sharing his sometimes bizarre experiences gleaned from nearly 50 years in legal practice and offering some conventional (and sometimes unconventional) solutions.

Topics covered will include: difficult partners, clients from hell, how to cope with your cockups, office parties, office love affairs, alcohol, snowball fights and of course harassment.

His aim will be to show that for all its downsides, working in the law can and should be fun and fulfilling.

Speaker: Richard Barr, APIL EC Member,
Scott Moncrief & Associates Ltd, Norwich

Tuesday, 17 November (Start time: 14:30)

Trial bundles in a post-Covid landscape

Preparing for trial can be daunting!!

Over the years, trial bundles have been criticised by the courts from broken lever arch files, for the documentation included, and most recently in the prorogation of parliament appeals, we saw counsel having to add numbering to each of his pages where his paginated copy of the bundle did not match the others!

Whilst a beautifully prepared bundle will not win a bad case, a poorly prepared bundle can damage a good case.

Therefore getting bundles right is an important step in the preparation for trial.

Speaker: Amey Welch,
Irwin Mitchell LLP, London

Tuesday, 17 November (Start time: 15:35)

AI cybersecurity, law and patient safety

This seminar will raise awareness of digital problems, such as cybersecurity and poor medical/digital regulation (especially of AI), that are frequently misunderstood. It will consider the general lack of relevant IT awareness, particularly in healthcare and law, and hence the potential for miscarriages of justice.

Speaker: Prof. Harold Thimbleby,
See Change Fellow in Digital Health,
Swansea University, Swansea

Tuesday, 17 November (Start time: 16:20)

Sepsis

This seminar will look at the medico-legal issues and the importance of timely diagnosis of sepsis

Well-being and support during Covid and beyond

Mental health matters

Working in the law can be hugely rewarding, but it can sometimes be tough - long hours, meeting the expectations of clients, and a competitive environment can all take their toll on your mental health. As a lawyer, your mind is your greatest asset and looking after it and the minds of colleagues is key to doing your best legal work.

This session will explore how the culture and practice of law can have an impact on mental health and the practical steps you and your workplace can take to support and promote good mental health.

Long term health considerations in those who have lived 25+ years with an SCI

Spinal cord injury (SCI) is a serious medical condition that causes functional, psychological and socioeconomic disorder.

Long-term secondary medical complications are common in patients with SCI, which further negatively impact on patients' functional independence, quality of life and life expectancy.

Therefore, prevention, early diagnosis and treatment of chronic secondary complications in patients with SCI is critical for limiting these complications, improving survival, community participation and health-related quality of life.

The purpose of this session is to provide an overview of risk factors, signs, symptoms, prevention and treatment approaches for secondary long-term complications in patients with SCI.
