

The psychology of law: Winning strategies to find and retain the best clients, succeed in claims and maximise outcomes for a profitable PI practice

VIRTUAL EVENT - LIVE STREAMED OR ON DEMAND Tuesday, 4 March 2025

This one-day virtual event has been designed and built upon Warren Collins' 25 years of handling cases in or involving the United States, gathering tips which have been successfully used in his daily UK practice.

This training will cover:

- Effective networking for lawyers
- The psychology of business development
- Finding and signing up clients
- Winning friends and influencing people
- Perception is reality - why what you look like, how you present yourself and what you say really matters
- Road maps and story telling
- Case framing
- The psychology of letters of claim - throw out your precedent letters!
- Biases and how to fight and capitalise on them: Association bias, confirmation bias, affinity bias
- And much more...

Speaker details:

Warren is a past co-ordinator for the APIL spinal cord injury special interest group (a post held for more than a decade).

He is an APIL fellow and member or (and assessor for) the APIL spinal cord injury and brain injury expert panels. He is also Chief Assessor for the Law Society personal injury accreditation panel.

He is a partner at Pennington Manches Cooper LLP in London, where he handles a broad range of complex serious injury and fatal accident claims. He has concluded numerous spinal cord injury, brain injury and amputee claims.
